

I Am a Word

IAW

XAVIER JOUVE © 2011

Instructions This test is made of 100 verbal problems. A word is described in each of them. Read the description carefully, pay attention to every underlined components, and answer by giving the word, which in your opinion corresponds most nearly to the description. There is no disadvantage for wrong answers; therefore you are encouraged to guess when you are not sure. However, only an answer with one word per question is permitted. You will find some problems to be harder than others, but be it known that arrangement of items has not been done proportionally, so do not hesitate to skip to the following one. Your time of work on this test is not limited. When finished, please send an email with you answers to testing@cerebrals.org using last page individual form template. Expect receiving your raw score within a week.

To our knowledge, a raw score of 75 on the IAW is accepted in order to apply to the Literarian Society. If you wish to have your score confirmed to them, please send $20 by PayPal to testing@cerebrals.org. An official confirmation will be sent you instead of a simple email. This fee will then serve to cover the operating costs of both cogn-iq.org and cerebrals.org.

If you have already taken a supervised intelligence test or a college test such as the ACT, the GRE, the SAT, etc., please do not forget to report your scores. This will neither be taken into account for grading your answers on the IAW nor shared with anyone but used for research purposes.

This will be of an invaluable help! Thank you so much in advance!
